Not illustrated. 1847 Excerpt: .collection for a supplement to the minister, would then be withheld and given to the Association; but this is a great mistake. That it would be withheld from one quarter, there is every reason to apprehend; but that it would, therefore, be transferred to the other quarter, there is little or no reason to hope. The habits of the people are not so easily moulded, nor can they be so safely tampered with as some would imagine. There might be arithmetic in the argument of those who contend on this ground for the abolition of the supplement; but most assuredly there is not in it a sound or experimental judgment of human nature. We think that those who contend for the abolition of our supplements might be instructed by the results of a former abolition, even that of the seat-rents. The calculation was, that all which might be remitted to the people on the article of seat-rents would be returned by them at the church-door, so as to swell the collections. Has it turned out so? or rather, has there not been a dead loss to the extent of many thousand pounds a-year in consequence? We do not know how many annual thousands would, in like manner, be thrown away by the abolition of these supplements. In keeping with this, there was a proposal sometime ago to abolish class-fees. It would just, as in the other cases, have proved the cause of an additional impoverishment. In short,...
